The Center of Excellence is the highest of three awards of accreditation that a hospital can obtain from us. It is awarded to accredited hospitals that have complied with all of the core indicators and have met at least 90 percent of the requirements in such performance areas as patients' rights and organizational ethics, patient care, safe practice and environment, leadership and management, human resource management, information management and improving performance.

Health care institutions awarded as Centers of Excellence are hospitals with well-established and efficient information management systems and processes in health care delivery and ensure the safety and satisfaction of their clients. These are hospitals that nurture leadership among their medical and other professional human resource. They encourage excellence in the management of their patients and human resource, emphasizing evidence-based medicine and staff training and development. Above all, these are hospitals with existing quality improvement programs aiming to continuously and systematically improve performance, catering to the needs of their internal and external clients to ensure that they produce the desired health outcomes responsive to the patients' and community's needs.
